

David Gunnarsson

CEO

Dohop

David Gunnarsson is the CEO of Dohop. David has extensive experience in the online travel industry, where he has progressed through different roles. During David's time at Dohop, the company has evolved from building online solutions for travellers into a tech provider for the airline industry, catering to several airlines around the globe and redefining the concept of travel connectivity in a digital world. David's experience before Dohop includes different roles in the financial sector where he has worked for Iceland's biggest bank in equity sales, trading, and investor relations.