

Bartek van de Pavert

Senior Business Development Manager

Nuvei

Bartek has a background in the hospitality industry and hotel travel technology. In 2004 he moved into online payments and has since then build relationships with airlines and travel companies for several well-known payments companies. He has a sound understanding of the eco-system airlines operate in. His international work experience with airlines from around the world has given him insights into the complex environment these companies operate in and the (payments) needs of its global clientele.