TerraPay

"I've been working in (travel) sales and global payments for over 15 years now, mostly in the online travel agency and hospitality world, which I love because it's dynamic, international, and never boring. These days (next to enjoy being a father of 3 beautiful kids) spending most of my time at TerraPay, where I get to work with a fantastic team helping businesses simplify payments, expand globally, and create smoother experiences for their customers.

I genuinely enjoy connecting people, spotting opportunities and turning complicated payment stuff into solutions that actually help companies grow. My background in online sales, partnerships, payments and travel keeps me commercially sharp, but I always try to keep things practical, human and customer focused.

I'm driven by innovation, collaboration and the excitement of building things that make global business a bit easier.

And honestly, if it involves travel, payments, partnerships, new ideas and solving problems together, I'm usually all in".
